For your general information, we will start a tour of the Northeast on November 24th at Constitution Hall in D.C. We will play Philadelphia (Tower) on the 29th, New York City (Beacon) on December 3rd and 4th and Boston (Orpheum) on December 12th. Many additional cities will be announced later.

We have three new T-shirts: a white one with the album cover artwork created by Todd Murphy on the front, a white one with the inner sleeve art work created by Karen Chance on the back, and a black one with a collage of the Karen Chance pieces on the back. All T-shirts are $14.00 and come in L or XL. Orders must specify color, design and size. Put "T-SHIRT" on the front of the envelope. We still have songbooks for the "Strange Fire" and "Indigo Girls" albums ($16.00). Again, place "SONGBOOK" on the envelope. Address orders c/o Russell Carter at the address listed below.

Happy Halloween Russell

GREETINGS From Tour Land....

I've been catching up on all your letters - I haven't been able to answer all of them - but I am reading every single one of the letters. . . .

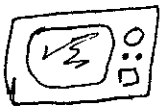

ONE of my latest projects outside of the Indigo Girls has been co-producing a band called Ellen James Society. They have a new record out called Reluctantly We, on my record label - Daemon Records distributed by Rough TRADE. Check it out, its alternative Rock and Roll with a twist.

I just saw a really cool foreign movie called King of Hearts. I rented it and I loved it. Another great older movie is called The Swimmer starring Burt Lancaster.

 If anyone has any suggestions for great vegetarian rest's in their hometown - send them in to us. We love to eat.

Our newest video should be out soon. We filmed it in an artist's studio. We danced around among beautiful works of art by Todd Murphy (album cover artist) to the tune of Hammer & Nail. We also painted in the video. We had a great time.

 Pretty soon we will start working on chords for our new songbook.

HOPE Life is treating you well

Amy Ray
